

MARRIED.

Grover Cleveland Takes Unto Himself a Wife,

And Frankie Folsom Becomes Mistress of the White House.

A Wedding That Will be Recorded in the Nation's History.

The Decorations, the Ceremony and What the Bride Was Dressed In.

The Interesting Event Passes Off Most Auspiciously.

WASHINGTON, June 2.

A notable event, the marriage of Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, occurred here to-night, and with it culminated what until a few days ago had been for months previous matter of doubt, speculation and gossip throughout the entire length and breadth of the country. It was a great event because of the exalted position of the groom, the chief magistrate of a nation of 60,000,000 of people, and because it was the first wedding of the kind that has ever occurred under the roof of the executive mansion. Yet not withstanding the exalted position of the president, and that the opportunity and occasion almost demanded a great and brilliant state wedding, the affair in all its proportions, appointments and surroundings was a quiet, home-like wedding. This was in accordance with President Cleveland's wishes and in harmony with the democratic simplicity and natural modesty which have characterized Grover Cleveland's career, whenever and wherever he has filled public office—whether as mayor of a city, governor of the Empire State or president of the United States.

THE WEDDING DAY

was ushered in by bright, beautiful weather, and almost with the rising sun came the bride and her kinsfolk to the executive mansion, after a night journey from New York.

THE CEREMONY.

Dr. Sunderland, assisted by the president's brother, the Rev. Wm. Cleveland, stood facing the bride and groom. Dr. Sunderland advanced and proceeded with the marriage ceremony as follows:

Forasmuch as we are assembled to observe the holy rite of marriage, it is needful that we should seek the blessings of the great God, our father, whose institution it is, and I therefore beseech you now to follow me with reverent heart in prayer to him:

Prayer—Almighty and Everlasting God, the Father of our spirits, the framer of our bodies, the giver of every good and perfect gift, thou who canst see the end from the beginning, who knowest what is best for us, thy children, and hast appointed the holy right of marriage to be sacredly observed throughout all generations, regard now, we beseech thee, thy servant, our chief magistrate. Endow him plentifully with thy grace and fill him with wisdom to walk in thy ordinances. Be very nigh to him in the midst of many cares and grave responsibilities. Day by day may thy law direct and thy strength uphold him, and be thou forever his sun and shield. And be graciously pleased to look down on this, thy daughter, even as thou didst favor the chosen Rebecca and many noble women that have adorned the world. May she indeed be a precious boon to her husband to cheer and help him continually, a woman gifted with the beauty of the Lord, and shedding the sweet influence of a Christian life upon the nation in whose sight she is to dwell. Wilt thou approve what we, thy servants, come to do in thy name, by thine authority and under the laws of the land in which we live, and graciously assist them, this man and this woman, who are here to be united in the bonds of holy wedlock according to the institution of thy words. Mercifully be pleased, Almighty God, to vouchsafe to each of them thy grace that they may well and truly weigh the unfailing vows which they are now about to make to each other in the presence of this company and before thee, and that they may be enabled hereafter at all times so to live together as to rejoice in the solemnization of this union with joy unspeakable and full of glory through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

After the prayer Dr. Sunderland made the following address: Marriage is honorable among all men, in that a man shall leave his father and mother and shall cleave unto his wife and they twain shall be one flesh. It was constituted by our Creator in the first paradise. It was consecrated by patriarch and priest, prophet and apostle. It was confirmed by the teaching and adorned with the presence of the Redeemer, and has been honored by the faithful keeping of all good men and women since the world began. It is not therefore to be undertaken lightly or unadvisedly but soberly, discreetly and in the fear of God. Into this holy state this man and this woman come now to enter. If any now can show just cause why they may not be lawfully united in marriage, let him now speak or hereafter forever noli his peace. If you desire to be united in marriage you will signify the same by joining your right hands."

Here the President and Miss Folsom joined hands.

The clergyman continuing asked: "Grover do you take this woman whom you hold by the hand to be your lawful wedded wife, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy state of wedlock? Do you promise to love, cherish, comfort and keep her, in sickness and in health, in joy and in sorrow, and forsaking all others, keep you only unto her so long as you both shall live?"

President Cleveland responded firmly: "I do."

Dr. Sunderland, then addressing Miss Folsom, asked: "Francis, do you take this man whom you hold by the hand to be your lawful wedded husband, to live together after God's ordinance in the holy state of wedlock? Do you promise to love him, honor, comfort and keep him in sickness and in health, in joy and in sorrow, and forsake all others, keep you only unto him so long as you both shall live?"

The lady responded: "I do."

"In token of the same," said Dr. Sunderland, "let the wedding ring be passed." The President then placed the wedding ring upon the bride's finger.

Dr. Sunderland then pronounced the sanction, saying: "Forasmuch as Grover and Frances have here agreed and covenanted to live together after God's ordinance in the holy state of wedlock and have confirmed the same by giving and taking the wedding ring, now therefore, in the presence of this company, in the name of the Father the Son and the Holy Ghost, I pronounce and declare that they are and what God hath joined together let no man put asunder," and concluded the ceremony with a benediction in the following words: "God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Ghost bless, preserve and keep you. The Lord mercifully fill you with all spiritual blessings and grant that you so live together in this world that in the world to come you may have life everlasting. Amen."

Congratulations were then in order, and Mrs. Folsom was the first to congratulate her daughter and son-in-law. Congratulations from other relatives and invited guests quickly followed and the company, passing through the green to the east room, engaged in pleasant and social conversation for some time and then repaired to the family dining room, the president and his bride leading the way to the supper table. At supper the president occupied his usual place on the north side of the table, his bride seated at his left and their guests disposed about the table in a manner best calculated to promote free and unrestrained social conversation.

THE COSTUMES.

President Cleveland was attired in full evening dress suit, and wore a turn down collar, a plain white lawn necktie, enamelled shirt studs and cuff buttons to match. The bride wore an enchanting wedding dress of ivory satin, amply garnished on the high corsage with India muslin, crossed in Grecian folds and carried in exquisite falls of simplicity over the petticoats. The orange blossom garniture, commencing upon the veil in a superb coronet, was continued throughout the costume with artistic skill. Her veil of tulle completely enveloped her, falling to the edge of the petticoat in front, and extending the entire length of her full court train. Excepting the engagement ring—a sapphire with two diamonds, and the plain wedding ring which the president placed upon her finger, the bride wore no jewelry whatever.

THE BRIDAL PRESENTS.

President Cleveland's gift to his bride was an elegant diamond necklace, the stones being set in gold and extending all around the neck. A large number of presents have been received at the mansion to-day. As soon as they arrived, however, they were quickly conveyed out of sight. The members of the cabinet gave individual wedding presents, some of which were quite elaborate, but in accordance with the special desire of the president a list of the presents received will not be made public. During the progress of the ceremony salutes were fired, bells were rung, and Prof. Widdows played Mendelssohn's wedding march and other appropriate selections on the chimes of the Metropolitan church. A large number of people gathered in front of the executive mansion during the ceremony, and while the wedding party were at supper no precautions were taken to prevent entrance to the grounds, and as they were quiet and orderly no efforts were made to exclude them from the premises.

Soon after partaking of their wedding supper the president and his bride were excused, and according to a pre-arranged plan quietly entered a carriage at the south entrance to the mansion and were driven to the K street crossing of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, where a special train was in waiting for them. They at once entered President Garrett's boudoir car, "My Maryland," and the train at 9:50 p. m. moved off for Deer Park, where the president and his bride will remain for a week. During their stay at Deer Park they will occupy a cottage specially fitted up for their accommodation near Deer Park hotel.

The only invited guests who were not present at the wedding were Miss Bayard and Attorney General Garland.

Previous to leaving the city the president directed Col. Lamont to have all of the cut flowers used in decorating the mansion to-night distributed among the city hospitals.

ARTICLES of limited partnership made this, the 26th April, 1886, between J. J. Crisman and Bryce Stewart, all residing in the city of Clarksville, Tennessee, for the purpose of conducting a general grocery, liquor, produce and provision business in said city, wholesale and retail.
The partnership business is to be conducted in the name of J. J. Crisman, who is the general partner, while Bryce Stewart is a special partner. The said Bryce Stewart puts into the business the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars in cash. J. J. Crisman puts into the business a part of the present stock of groceries, provisions, etc., which is valued at Five Thousand Dollars.
The partnership begins on this day, April 26th, 1886, and is to continue until the 26th April, 1891. The general partner, J. J. Crisman, only, is authorized to transact business, sign for the partnership, and to bind the firm. The profits of the business are to be equally divided between said J. J. Crisman and Bryce Stewart. The losses are to be divided in the same ratio, but Stewart is not to be liable for any loss beyond the aforesaid sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars which he contributes to the capital stock.
In witness whereof we have this day signed this agreement, this 26th April, 1886.
